

20 graduate from Sweet Tassa

YOUNG DRUMMERS:
Students of NGC Sweet Tassa demonstrate their tassa drumming skills at the graduation ceremony.

ON January 13, NGC Trinidad and Tobago Sweet Tassa hosted a graduation ceremony for 20 students of its year-long academy at Mt Stewart Village, Princes Town.

The programme kicked off in Q1 2017 and involved two-hour classes every week. Students were exposed to the musical genres of calypso, nagara, dingolay and chutney, as well as a history of the tassa art form.

Lennita N Kumar, assistant manager of the tassa group, noted the benefits of the academy included "developing the minds of the students musically and teaching them the art form and the culture of tassa drumming. We also help teach self-discipline and socialisation skills, as the students work in teams and eventually see the application of how teamwork can produce beautiful music, as well."

Asked how NGC capacity building training assist the band's management in coordinating the academy, Lennita responded:

"The training inspired and motivated us to think of the future of the band to highlight our skills and to leave a mark on society, not only as drummers, but as educators. It changed our outlook to not limit our thinking to teach our skills to only those interested in the art form. It helped us develop our strategy as a band, to promote the band as leaders in the tassa fraternity and showed us the proper way to manage the day-to-day process as an organisation; for example, in writing proposals and addressing individuals in a classroom format. We were able to collaborate with those outside of the band as we incorporated persons who are not drummers but for example, teachers and parents who played an integral part of assisting in the growth of the academy and the students."

Lisa Burkett, manager, corporate communications, was on hand to present certificates.

Speaking at the ceremony Allister Narinesingh, community relations officer, stated, "NGC is
